

Micro-Computed Tomography (MCT) Beamline

Following the achievement of “first light” on the MCT beamline late November 2021, a small team of scientists from CSIRO, led by Dr Sherry Mayo, ran the first successful user experiment on the MCT Beamline starting 6th October. The team at CSIRO are now analysing the extensive results obtained. A second team of users, from Monash Univ., including several postgraduate students, have just completed their official user beamtime on MCT. Both user teams are extremely happy with their first results. A third user group, a team from New Zealand, are scheduled to visit the beamline at the end of October.
